East Berlin Readies For Anniversary

BERLIN (AP)—A city saddened by the border killing of a 12-year-old refugee boy organized a massive rally for Sunday to mark the ninth anniversary of the East German uprising against communism.

East Germany announced Friday it has delivered sharp formal notes to the Western Allies protesting the planned appearance of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at the rally.

Order Sitdown Strikes Determined that no frivolity should mar a solemn observance of the anniversary, West Berlin youth movements ordered their members to stage sitdown strikes at a railway station and bus terminal to block the usual Sunday exodus of picnickers bound for the beach at Wannsee Lake.

West Berlin police reported the boy victim of the latest shooting by East German guards fell last Sunday as he sought to escape to the West. They said he was shot in the lungs and lay for an hour on a sports field before he was carried away.

Because the shooting took place on the East side of the Communist wall, West police did not get details immediately. The death brought the known number of killings along the wall to 36.

East German Communists have frequently lashed out against Adenauer visits to West Berlin. But their annoyance at such visits has never before taken the form of an official protest to the Western powers. The West Big Three are unlikely to take notice of the protest since they have no diplomatic relations with East Germany.

The East German Foreign Office said the notes were handed to the United States, Britain and France in Prague Tuesday through the good offices of the Czechoslovak government.

The protest note said flying Adenauer across East German territory in a military plane would be a gross violation of international law.

watch as a token of appreciation for his services.

John Tierney, toastmaster, read a telegram from Rep. Francis E. Walter who had been invited as a guest of the association. It said, in part, "I deeply regret I will be unable to attend the banquet and take part in the parade."

Tierney then introduced honored guests, including State Sen. William Z. Scott; Joseph Small, Stroudsburg mayor; Thomas Kistler, East Stroudsburg mayor; Judge Fred W. Davis, John B. Trethaway, Stroudsburg chief of police; H.W. Tebbs, Stroud Township chief of police, and James Marsh, Monroe County district attorney.

Also present was a delegation from Roseto Fire Company. They wore straw hats with red bands on which was printed "Golden Jubilee." Anthony Sabatino, president, and John Finelli, vice president, were joined by Fred A. Vario, fire chief. James Cimino and Anthony Sabetti were present. Michael Campanare was delegate to the voting. Each man wore a badge with the words, "Societa Dei Bafoni," stating the dates of the celebration as June 28, 29 and 30. They all wore mustaches in accordance with the festival custom.

Rev. Francis Barrett gave the invocation and benediction. Ronald Lebar, chairman of the convention committee had the members of the committee stand. "This was no one man job," he said, "the committee deserves to be thanked for the job they all did."

One Of The Best Everitt said the convention was one of the best the association had ever held. He commended the work that had been done in preparation for the parade this afternoon and reminded the firemen of the fire truck judging which will take place prior to the four hour parade.

After the banquet, entertainment was provided by a group of professional acts. Bob Sydney was master of ceremonies. Bunny Glenn did a juggling act. Marion Shilling sang several selections.

The Willards presented comedy illusions. Vicky Stringer, humorous violin virtuoso, presented portions of her repertoire. Ruth Daye entertained with xylophone music. The firemen and their guests danced after the entertainment.

Bloom Will Get Report On Monroe GOP Division

A REPORT on the confusion surrounding election of two Monroe County Republican chairmen Thursday night will be presented to George L. Bloom, state GOP chairman, today in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Mary Fontanella, vice chairman of the county Republican committee, told The Daily Record by telephone last night that she will see Bloom this morning.

Asked if she planned to report to him on the meetings, she replied: "I'm going to show him page one of The Record and let him ask me questions."

Mrs. Fontanella is attending the annual meeting of the State Republican Committee. Last night, she and other vice chairwomen were guests at a dinner given by Mrs. Ruth Pennell, state vice chairman, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Bloom was in Monroe County Thursday night, but had retired for the night before the second of the two meetings — or the continuation of the first — broke up about 10:30 p.m.

Parke W. Unangst, rounding out his first two-year term as county GOP chairman, was accused by the 40 committeemen and women who remained to vote for Hanford L. Cleveland for chairman of "railroading" the first meeting.

They said Unangst refused to accept any nominations from the floor except for himself and the persons he wanted elected as secretary and treasurer and also accepted a motion to adjourn while there were other motions on the floor.

Unangst denied the charges, said he conducted a legal meeting and that the session held after he left was an "outlaw meeting."

Cleveland, former county representative in the General Assembly, was elected by a 38-2 vote at the later session. The two dissenting votes were cast for Unangst.

The 38 votes represents a clear majority of the county's 70 GOP committeemen and women.

Thursday night's machinations are a continuation of the bitter primary battle between Gerald A. Snyder, who won the GOP nomination for representative in the state legislature, and Clifford Heller, who had the backing of Unangst and the county committee.

Snyder said Thursday night that Unangst's actions at the meeting were those of a "little Caesar."

Unangst denied the charges, said he conducted a legal meeting and that the session held after he left was an "outlaw meeting."

Cleveland, former county representative in the General Assembly, was elected by a 38-2 vote at the later session. The two dissenting votes were cast for Unangst.

Complained At Union Meeting But Members Hooted Her Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—A raven-haired, sultry-eyed dancer testified Friday she was stripped naked on her first night club job and thrust out to perform in a glaring spotlight.

Anita Lupushok, who said she now is known in the night club circuit as Fatima and specializes in Latin-type dances, told Senate investigators she was hooted down when she tried to complain at a union meeting.

"I opened my mouth too wide," she said. "They shut me up."

This and other testimony about alleged collusion between racketeer night club owners and the American Guild of Variety Artists brought Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to his feet with a denunciation of what he called a "national disgrace."

McClellan is chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which is looking into allegations that some AGVA officials have connived with strip and club joint operators in forcing young girl entertainers into prostitution.

One witness, Ann O'Connor, veteran Chicago performer, testified that "these poor kids" working in the neon light belt have been "exploited to the point you wonder if they are not the forgotten citizens."

"I have always felt there was collusion between AGVA and the operators," she said.

Rubber Stamp The comedienne said AGVA's 45-member board of directors leaves all unfinished business from its meetings to a 15-member executive committee. The committee, she said, serves as a rubber stamp for the union's $31,000-a-year executive administrator, Jackie Bright.

Thus, she contended, Bright is the real power. He is slated for questioning next week.

From her home in Baltimore, Dorothy Lamour, a member of AGVA's board of directors, protested that some of the witnesses were using the entertainers' union to get into the limelight or to repay grudges against night club owners.

The ex-sarong girl of the movies, now Mrs. William R. Howard III, said that if showgirls were mistreated at clubs having union contracts it was the girls' own fault.

"They should have picked up the telephone and called AGVA headquarters' collect and, boy, something would have been done fast," she said.

Before recessing the hearings until next Tuesday, McClellan asked Martin Cavenaugh, AGVA's new Chicago branch manager, "What have you done for the girls?"

"Not anything, sir. Not so far," Cavenaugh replied.

Working Conditions "What have you done about the working conditions—this national disgrace?" McClellan persisted.

"Nothing," said Cavenaugh. Cavenaugh is married to night club singer Ruth Compton, an AGVA director and executive committee member. He recently succeeded Ernest Fast, who testified he was fired from the union after talking with Senate investigators.

The subcommittee got nowhere with Joseph Aluppa, described by Chicago authorities as a "notorious hoodlum and gangster." The description was supplied in an affidavit by Roswell T. Spencer, chief investigator for the Cook County state's attorney, and it added that Aluppa is "an important figure in organized crime in the Chicago area."

Aluppa, bespectacled and balding, refused to confirm or deny the accusation. He invoked the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination when questioned about the affidavit, which listed him as owner of three Cicero night clubs.

These night clubs were named as the Frolics, Magic Lounge and Tuff Lounge. The affidavit pictured the Magic Lounge and the Frolics as notorious clip and strip dancing, stripping to complete nudity, B-drinking, prostitution and every kind of immorality and public indecency have flourished without interference from Cicero authorities."

Ford Motors Begin Closing Plants Due To Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., the nation's second-largest automobile manufacturing empire, began shutting down all of its passenger car operations Friday because of a strike at a vital stamping plant.

Upwards of 50,000 production workers were to be idled at the end of second shift operations Friday night.

At issue is a work standards dispute which erupted in a strike at the Walton Hills stamping plant near Cleveland eight days ago. The plant is the major source of hoods, doors, roofs, trunk lids and fenders for all Ford models except the Lincoln Continental.

Top level negotiators of Ford and the United Auto Workers Union indicated some progress was being made towards a settlement when they recessed their five-hour session late Friday until 1 p.m. Saturday.

M.M. (Mike) Cummins, Ford's labor relations director, said "We are getting a better understanding on where we are going."

Cummins told newsmen they could read in his statement a slight note of optimism but advised them to emphasize slight.

Ken Bannon, director of the union's Ford department, commented, "It appears that we are making progress and that we are on the right road."

Earlier during an afternoon break, Gene Prato, chairman of the union's national Ford committee, said nothing had been accomplished at the morning session.

The Walton Hills plant was one of the last to settle local grievances during Ford national negotiations on a new three-year contract with the UAW last fall.

"We will give them a reasonable time to respond before calling a strike," Ronald A. Brown, the engineers' president told newsmen. Later he said 24 hours after the end of his news conference would be reasonable.

The AFL-CIO union renewed its acceptance of the government's proposal to arbitrate pay and other issues, at least with two of the airlines, Pan American and Eastern. The union's TWA branch, however, reiterated its refusal to submit any of the issues to arbitration.

All three airlines had accepted the government's arbitration proposal on all issues.

Gives Up Trip

Class Gives Money To Sick Classmate

GLEN LAKE, Mich. (AP)—The 33 graduating seniors of Glen Lake High School will receive a personal pat on the back from President Kennedy—provided they can find a way to get to Washington.

Kennedy invited the students to visit him at the White House as a tribute to the help they've given a cancer-stricken classmate. They had worked for six years to raise enough money for a trip to the nation's capital, but called it off to give financial aid to their ailing friend.

Washington residents who heard of the students' generosity began pledging money for the trip. However, another $900 is needed to pay for transportation, said school Principal Harold E. Sweeney.

"We have pledges to date for $1,600 but we need $2,500 to make the trip," he said.

"We'll drive the students to Detroit in our school bus," Sweeney said, "but we'll have to take a train from there to Washington and back."

He said the graduates—21 boys and 12 girls—had washed cars, sold popcorn and candy, and worked at odd jobs since 1956 to pay for the scheduled trip. But a few months ago, Duane Richardson, 17, star of the school's basketball team, learned he had cancer in his right shoulder.

His classmates decided to turn $700 of their earnings over to Duane's family to help foot bills for surgery and isotope treatments. When newspapers reported this, offers of money came from Washington.

Radio station WWDC said it would send $700 to the graduating class, and others in Washington offered lodging and food, Thursday night, Sweeney told the graduates he learned President Kennedy might invite them to the White House.

"They really cut loose," he said, "cheering, whistling and clapping."

Duane also will be able to make the trip. Sweeney said, "I talked to his mother today and she said the doctors are very optimistic about Duane's chances of recovering."

Duane is a shy, husky, 6-foot-6er who played on Glen Lake's basketball, football and baseball teams. Sweeney called him an above-average student.

Scripture—Psalm 24; Revelation 5; 7:9-17; 11:15-19.

After David, under the Lord's command, conquered the Philistines he took possession of Jerusalem. To that city he and the other Israelites carried in triumph the Ark of God, dancing and rejoicing with all their might, and praising God.—II Samuel 6:1-5; 12:19; Psalm 24.

In Revelation, John records a vision of the throne of God, surrounded by 24 elders on thrones, white-clad with golden crowns, and "four living creatures." They sing a song of praise to a Lamb (Christ) Who has been found worthy to open God's scroll.—Revelation 4:4; 5:1-10.

In another scene from Revelation, a numberless multitude stands before the throne of God and the Lamb. All are clothed in the white of purification; they bear palm branches and give thanks that they have been redeemed after "the great tribulation."—Revelation 7:9-17.

Again, an angel heralds the coming of the kingdom of "our Lord and of His Christ" to the world, after the raging of nations and the destruction of the destroyers. "And He shall reign for ever and ever," says the angel.—Revelation 11:15-19.

By Protestant Ministers

Should Clerical Collars Be Worn?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer
Whether or not they should wear clerical collars is a continuing question today among Protestant ministers.

Some do so. Some don't.
The relative values or drawbacks of such garb is a matter of pro-and-con discussion among them.

Generally, the trend seems to be toward increased Protestant use of clerical dress, in the pulpit and out, along with greater emphasis on symbolism and liturgical forms in worship.

But the debate on proper attire for the minister's through-the-week activities goes on.

If the distinctive collar is necessary to do the job well, says the Rev. L. V. Ruckman Jr., a Hyacinth, Va., Methodist pastor, "then there is something wrong with my ministry."

"It is not what I am on the outside, but rather on the inside that counts."

However, the Rev. Donald B. Strobe, also a Methodist, of Eaton Rapids, Va., said in a recent symposium on the subject that there are "theological as well as practical reasons" for clerical apparel.

It is an immense help in hospitals and other visits, he says, adding: "It avoids awkward situations, and often opens up avenues of Christian conversation otherwise missed."

Beyond practical advantages, he adds, theological factors suggest such garb when a person is "representing the Christian church in an official capacity" and acting as the "ordained representative of the general 'priesthood of all believers,'" rather than as a private individual.

Episcopal clergymen and a large proportion of Lutheran ministers wear clerical dress, as do all Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox clergy. Many Presbyterians and Methodists also do so, particularly in the East and Northeast.

Baptists, Disciples of Christ and United Church of Christ (Congregationalist) ministers generally shun the collar for street wear, although many increasingly wear gowns in the pulpit, and also have robed choirs.

All such methods are related to the usefulness of religious symbolism.

$1,388,782 Budget Is Tentatively Adopted

BANGOR — A tentative budget of some $1,388,782.50 was tentatively adopted at the regular meeting of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee at the senior high school building with Harold LaPenna serving as chairman for the president, Dr. Nicholas Casarion and the vice president Raymond Scott.

Shares of each of the seven districts that comprise the joint after July 1 were listed as follows: Bangor, $411,214.37; Upper Mt. Bethel, $299,722.67; Washington, $258,432.75; Lower Mt. Bethel, $122,051.54; East Bangor, $81,705.82; Roseto, $80,589.60 and Portland, $46,283.25. It was announced that the budget will be finally adopted at a meeting of the Joint Committee and the Bangor Area Joint School Boards on July 18.

L. J. Bruschi was granted permission to supply the public address system for the home football games. Season tickets for the football season were priced at $3.25 which will include a reserved seat for the Thanksgiving Day game with Pen Argyl. Plans were also made to expand the football program by scheduling several contests with East Stroudsburg for ninth grade students only. This would be in addition to the regular junior varsity game.

The baseball and track schedules for 1962-63 school year were also given final approval. Also approved was the use of the Nationwide Insurance Company for the athletic program through Luther Ackerman local agent.

It was announced by Donald B. Keat, superintendent of schools that to date some 114 boys had secured parental permission slips to play football next fall.

Instrumental Classes
Plans were also announced that instrumental classes will be held during the summer for junior high and elementary students under the supervision of Kenneth Fritz, director of music. It was also reported that Alan G. Miller, band director would start his Summer Marching Band rehearsals during the month of August.

The board granted a maternity leave of absence to Mrs. Judith Evans Landry, a teacher in the Columbus Building. The leave will extend from September through to January of 1963.

Permission was granted to the Senior High School Library Club to attend the annual Five-County Library Conference to be held at Reading some time during the month of October. At the same time the board granted the local club permission to invite the conference to the senior high school in 1963. The board also appropriated the sum of $100 towards the expense of the local conference.

In an effort to secure police protection at the senior high school building, the board instructed that an effort be made to have seven members of the custodial staff made deputy sheriffs in order that they might act for events inside of the school building and on the school grounds.

Mrs. Cornelia Stiles, presently principal of the East Bangor School was named to that position by the joint committee and Earl W. Lutz, teacher of political science and economics in the senior high school was named as chairman of the social studies department.

Edward C. Fishler was named as adviser to the student council of the junior high school and Louis Guida, business instructor was authorized for instruction in the new IBM-Penn State course in a new area of bookkeeping.

The resignation of Mrs. Janet Arnts a teacher in the Columbus Building was accepted and Kenneth R. Fritz who has served as co-ordinator of music for the school system was named as director of music.

In the recent death of Mr. Ernest Courtney, for 13 or more years principal and teacher in the Portland School, the board authorized resolutions of respect be forwarded to members of his family on behalf of the school district.

Recommendation

The board recommended to the Joint Area School Authority that it purchase 36 upholstered chairs for the board room at a cost of $2,145.00 and also the purchase of 96 by 42 inch tables at a cost of $567.00 each for the same purpose. The vote on this purchase was by a 10 to 7 count.

The E. H. Evans Post 378, American Legion was granted the use of the areas of the junior high school building in Bangor on July 14 for the annual Serenade of Brass to be staged at the Bangor Memorial Park on that date. The board also approved the contract with Everetts Associates for planning and supervision of the buildings of the district.

In an effort to secure safer road areas over which students of the jointure are transported, the board instructed Secretary Merle Mabus to petition the State Department of Highways to make whatever safety precautions are necessary to protect the East Bangor-Bangor road in the quarry hole area from continuing as a hazard to traveling on that road. An effort will also be made to have property owners along the road where open quarry holes are in evidence, to grant the State permission to build the proper barriers to this hazard.

Bids Received
Bids were received by the joint committee for sewer connections of the buildings of the district located in Bangor. These include: the junior high school; the administration building; the junior high cafeteria; the Lincoln Building; the Roosevelt Building and the McKinley Building. The apparent low bidder for the work was Steltz and Bush of Bangor at $2,060. They were awarded the contract for the work. The other bidders were John Goffredo and Sons of Washington Township, $2,865; Fred Ronca and Son, $2,880; and Phillip Capobianco, $2,784.50.

It was announced that the annual School Directors Conference would be held at Indiana State College on July 20 through July 22 and the board authorized the payment of $3,907.35 in front foot assessments for the Bangor School Buildings to the Bangor Sewer Authority.

Tailor Made

Now that President Kennedy finally has agreed with the business community and economic experts that the weight of Federal tax rates is so great that it is depressing economic growth and perpetuating unemployment, new attention should be given to the Herlong-Baker legislation.

This bi-partisan approach to income tax rate reform was designed to remove the tax roadblocks to growth and employment, while at the same time protecting Federal revenue requirements. It is legislation in written form, now in the House Ways and Means Committee, and could be passed by this session of Congress.

The President, proposes, on the other hand, that the next Congress pass an income tax reform measure. This would take many months, and even if Congress made it retroactive to the President's January 1 target for easing the tax burden, much time would be lost before the country was "moving forward" again.

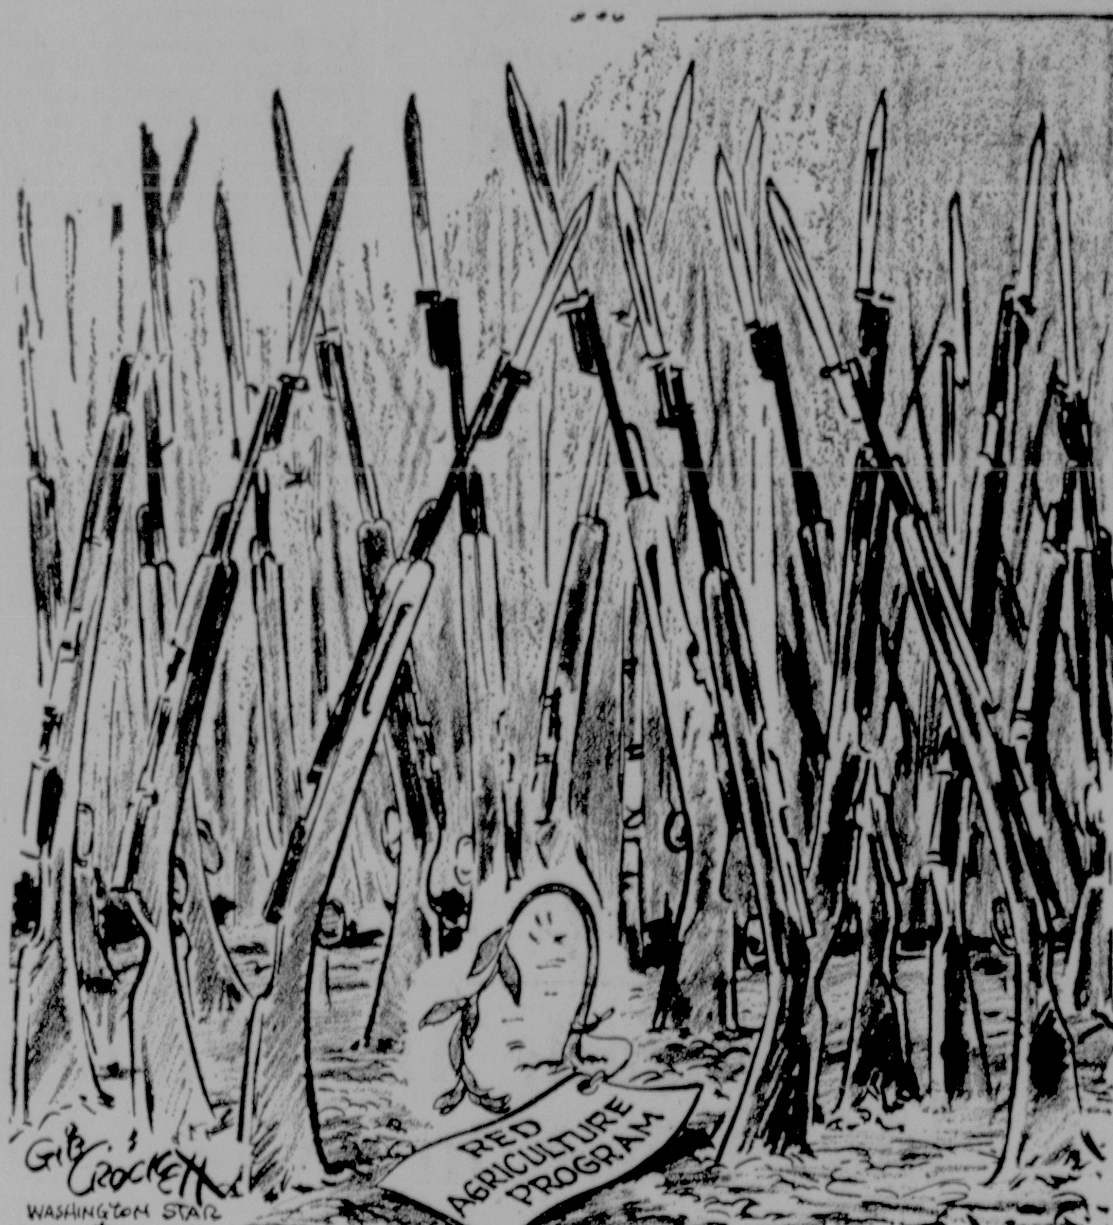

Passage of the Herlong-Baker bill should be substituted as an Administration objective for the tax measure the President is now trying to push through Congress. That measure is in trouble, anyway. Businessmen oppose the plan to subsidize those of their members who invest in certain types of new equipment. Millions of small investors are outraged by the dividend and interest withholding features. Congressional mail of record proportions shows how unpopular this measure is, and now the President has admitted that it won't do the job of allowing economic growth anyway.

So, the President should shift Administration backing from the present makeshift tax bill to the Herlong-Baker legislation. These bi-partisan, identical, bills would accomplish an across-the-board rate reduction each year for five years. At the end, the highest corporate or personal rate would be 47 per cent—against up to 91 per cent now. And every taxpayer would find his tax bill cut at least 25 per cent.

New treatment of depreciation, capital gains and estates, would stop the taxing away of capital which now blocks economic growth we could have.

As the President says, tax rates are holding America back. The quickest way to rectify this is to pass the carefully-prepared Herlong-Baker plan, and do it this session.

Too Much Competition!

A Sharp Turn On Medicare

The positiveness with which President Kennedy last month predicted passage of the King-Anderson bill on hospital care for the aged looks slightly absurd now. Whereas the administration only a little earlier spurned any suggestion of compromise, Secretary Ribicoff has conferred at length with the House Committee on Ways and Means over possibilities of making it acceptable.

The only point on which the White House now insists, says the Health, Education, and Welfare administrator, is that financing of the new service shall be through the social security system and its payroll tax.

This leaves some room for maneuver. It would permit, for example, an amendment along the lines of the Lindsey or Rockefeller plan under which a person covered by social security could use its hospital care payments to cover premiums on a privately insured plan of his own choosing.

But any use of the social security system would have two important shortcomings. One is that a large number of persons over 65 still would have to be taken care of through the general assistance programs and the Kerr-Mills Act. Another is that many social security beneficiaries, just turning 65, would receive coverage far out of proportion to their relatively short-term contributions to the system.

On these grounds and others, pivotal members of the Ways and Means Committee evidently have decided that the Kerr-Mills Act, passed in 1960, deserves a fuller trial to see if it may by itself meet the need. Apparently, too, the congressmen have not found such a groundswell of popular support for "medicare" as the administration has tried hard to promote.

State legislatures should see to it that their states make use of the Kerr-Mills Act and co-operate with its provisions. With this done, it may be found that the King-Anderson bill is no more an irresistible "wave of the future" than was the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill which for many years posed a broader threat of "socialized medicine."

The Curse Of Keynes

To be told, at this late date, that we shall return to the Keynesian concept of planned deficit spending and to tax cutting without balancing the budget, is discouraging because one is expected to learn by experience and experience is against any such program. President Kennedy has heretofore not given the impression that he favored deficit financing.

It is unfortunate that President Kennedy in his Yale speech gave the country this dose of Milton. We do not need to have our nerves quieted; we need to be stimulated so that we can move forward. And the economy of this country cannot move forward unless drastic steps are taken in specific directions:

1. Government spending needs to be cut to the bone, because there is no honest money available for wasteful expenditures;
2. Foreign aid must be cut to the bone because we are running out of funds to aid countries which do not need aid and do not know how to use our aid;
3. Taxes must be cut immediately both for corporations and individuals to stimulate economic activity and to restore a greater respect for the payment of taxes; postponement to April 1964 will not help much now;
4. A diligent search must be made for hidden American money and for tax evaded possessions abroad. The thief who evades taxes is as much a thief as one who steals a purse;
5. If a ceiling is put on prices, it must be put on wages; otherwise industry will become obsolescent;
6. GATT cannot be permitted to control the American tariff which must be free to function as necessary to protect American industry and the jobs of American workers from unfair competition in the American market. If this is not done, a "Buy American" campaign will progress among our people which would hamper the Administration in its foreign negotiations;
7. We cannot afford to go on playing tiddlywinks with Soviet Russia or with any other country which seeks to destroy us. Our weapons must be sharp and swift.

Action along these lines will restore confidence. Inaction makes for confusion and confusion adds to fear. The President's economic advisers may know economics but not the psychology of the American people. The current recession is psychological and must be treated that way.

In his Yale speech, President Kennedy sought to restore confidence but he spoke to the Yale faculty not to the country and neither for tax evaded possessions abroad. The thief who evades taxes is as much a thief as one who steals a purse;

Buildings at the Old County Fair Grounds in Stroudsburg were being torn down. Plans called for erection of new buildings there.

The Union Church in Saylorsburg was struck by lightning and damaged slightly by fire that followed. Firemen did a very good job preventing it from doing any great damage.

Hamilton Township Citizens League announced it would circulate petitions on closing of the dump in the township. (What ever happened to this organization?)

American forces in Alaska delivered a staggering blow to three Japanese cruisers, one destroyer and a gunboat as the enemy attempted to land additional troops in the Aleutian Islands.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

One of the best golf stories we've heard this year concerns a Glen Brook Country couple. It seems the woman in question was having a rough time getting off the 5th hole tee. After dribbling two shots and missing two others she turned to her caddy and said:

"I suppose you think I'm the worst golfer you've ever caddied for."

"Oh no," said the kind caddy. "Mr. So and So is far worse than you."

The name shocked the lady because it was her husband she had mentioned. But husband and wife got quite a few laughs afterwards on the tee-box that placed them in the worst two golfers category.

The Bill Phipers — he's the sporting goods man and she's the home economist expert — moved into their new home in the Glen Brook section (near Reich's Farm) yesterday.

Mrs. Phipers' mother will move into Bill and Linda's Colbert St. house in August.

Congratulations are certainly in order for Stroudsburg's Al Everitt, the Four-County Firemen's secretary, and Les Rice, Stroud Twp. fire chief.

Everitt's accolades are for his long and meritorious service to the group — 25 years as secretary — while Rice gets his lauds for Stroud's acting as perfect hosts for yesterday's and today's convention.

While we are in the praise department let's tip the lid to Ronald LaBar, general chairman of the convention. Stroud Township and its firemen should be proud to have the likes of LaBar heading such an event.

The Careful Consumer

A pretty young lady sat for hours in her stalled car, waiting for help. Finally two young men came along and asked if they could help.

"I'm out of gas," she said, "could you be kind enough to push me to a gas station?"

The two young men got back of the car and pushed it several blocks, huffing and puffing. After a while, one looked up and noticed they had passed a gas station.

"Why didn't you turn in at that gas station?" he asked.

"They don't give trading stamps," the young thing replied.

A local engineer attending a symposium on the Polaris missile at the Pentagon the other day, ate in the cafeteria with the other outer-space engineers. He noticed two lines of food counters. Before each was a sign. One said "Regular Food," the other read "Bland."

Local Memories Of 'Custer's Last Stand'

Editor, The Daily Record:

During the gay nineties and into the nineteen hundreds, there appeared behind many a saloon bar, a picture some three feet wide by four feet in length. The title of this picture was "Custer's Last Stand". A brewing company handed them out as advertising for it's beer. Today out of the many thousands of these pictures given out, a few remain as collectors items.

The subject of this picture was General Custer's last fight with the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians, on the Little Big Horn, in Dakota Territory, on Sunday, June 25, 1876. Here regular army officer Lieut. Col. George Armstrong Custer was killed along with 276 of his men. He had defied a military axiom and divided his command.

However, had he not done so, his entire command of over 600 men of the famed 7th Cavalry Regiment would have perished. Whether Custer knowingly did this or not, will never be known. It is a good thing for the 7th Cavalry that he did, as it was opposed by no less than 3000 Indians.

It has been quite popular of late to picture General Custer as a flamboyant egotistical snob, hated by his men and interested only in military glory, lacking in military knowledge and worse. However, in the light of careful research and sound source material, he does appear in a different light. If ever a figure in our history captures the imagination, it is that of General George Armstrong Custer.

He was six feet tall, one hundred-seventy pounds, muscular, with close set blue grey eyes. He was mistakenly called cross-eyed. He had a beak-like nose, over a drooping yellow mustache. Long ears hidden by long curly shoulder length "yellow hair." On his head a rakish ruffage cap, his complexion was ruddy.

He designed his own uniforms. This has always been the privilege of General Army officers.

Editor, The Daily Record:

In the Record of Saturday, June 9, there was a letter from Glen Fisher which will probably evoke no reply; yet it deserves serious consideration. He protested a court action involving a charge against a man for moonshining.

The serious aspect of the case is not that a man was arrested for making home brew, but that after a jury had pronounced him innocent he was required by the court to pay the cost of a proceeding brought by the police to prove him guilty!

Last year I wrote to protest another local case where an accused man was also found not guilty by a jury, yet remanded to jail until he himself paid the costs of a trial brought to prove him guilty!

My protest met with complete silence. Members of the legal profession and "patriotic" societies either feared to criticize or were indifferent to arbitrary judicial restraint of a fundamental liberty.

In our local college we have had exchange students brought here from Ethiopia, New Zealand, Ghana, to bask in the sunshine of the American Bill of Rights so that they might carry the good word back home with them. What they will take back from Monroe County is indisputable evidence that in America the jury system does not guarantee justice since an innocent man may be shackled by the court with the legal costs of his trial and kept imprisoned until they are paid!

My high school daughter told me that this was "explained" in school as something embodied in the constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania! What then has become of our "guarantees?"

Recommends Camping

Editor, The Daily Record:

I would like to encourage parents to take advantage of the coming camping season. Many times the summer vacation is wasted in idle play instead of undertaking a constructive program of activities.

Many of the benefits to be gained from a camping program can be found nowhere else. Experiences such as hiking, nature study, cookouts, song fests, canoeing, are some of the events that should not be denied a child in his most formative years.

Don't miss the opportunity to give your child these memorable experiences.

Sincerely,
Charles Reese

Comments Hospital

Editor, The Daily Record:

I would like to take this opportunity to extend to the staff of the Monroe County General Hospital our sincere thanks for the very wonderful treatment given my wife in her recent hospital stay.

Coming from an area in which we are surrounded by hospitals, I could not help but give commendation upon the warmth, friendliness and consideration displayed in your hospital. Believe me, this is rare and it is appreciated tremendously by anyone who has the misfortune to be ill.

I hope that you and your hospital never lose this feeling. Again my sincere thanks.

Pans Critic

Editor, The Daily Record:

Where do you get your reporting on the Pocono Playhouse opener? UGH!

The "Inkwell" was a most enjoyable piece of comedy (sans a lot of vulgarity).

Perhaps one could learn from other reporters.

boy general and was the idol of his men. They gave him the name "Yellow Hair". The Confederate and Union Armies both called him the "Daredevil".

It would be a difficult task, to find an individual who by sheer personality, intelligence and heroism played a bigger part in winning the war between the states, physically or otherwise, particularly in the vicinity of Gettysburg, than Brevet-Major General Custer.

He was a master horseman, one of the best in either army. He was an expert swordsman, chicopee sabres of the time were sharp and were used to hack, stab, kill and mutilate soldiers of either side. This was no motion picture war.

General Custer loved his Michigan Cavalry Brigade. If any general officer in the Union Army took part in more engagements than he, it is not recorded.

Let's move West with General Custer.

It is after the war, he becomes commandant of the 7th Cavalry Regiment, Fort Lincoln Nebraska. He created his own band. Their favorite piece is "Garry Owen", song of the 7th. The 7th was a veritable foreign legion. It was made up of thieves, alcoholics, murderers, along with many good men. General Custer gave them an "esprit de Corps" and a pride in the 7th second to none.

They fought no less than thirty engagements with the Indians. The 7th Cavalry Regiment did more in the winning of the West than any other organization or groups of organizations.

Then we come to the Little Big Horn and the death of a man who, under adverse and discouraging conditions and jealousy, performed great and heroic services for this country. And I again contend, that if praise of General Custer seems like a gilding of the lily, a close unbiased study of his life will prove otherwise.

It is an interesting historical fact, that Elizabeth Bacon Custer, widow of General Custer, once lived in Monroe County near Stroudsburg. She held title to some four acres of land West of town on the right-hand side of the Tanite Road bordering the Pocono Creek. She held title to this land for some eighteen years. There was a frame house and a log house on the property, these have long since been destroyed by fire and decay.

Mrs. Custer spent the summers here, with a lady companion. It is to be supposed that here she did some of her writing. She was the author of "Boots and Saddles" and "Following The Guidon", about her life on the plains with General Custer. She also wrote for newspapers and magazines.

(Note: The above books were widely read at the time. They are available at the library in Stroudsburg. Mrs. Custer gave a lecture in the First Presbyterian Church in Stroudsburg in the Fall of 1892. This is from "The Jeffersonian", early Stroudsburg newspaper.)

She was an accomplished horsewoman and many of the older citizens of Stroudsburg I have talked with, remember seeing her drive into Stroudsburg with her team and buggy. However, there are few living people who remember this.

It would be interesting for the few who remember her to come forward and describe what they remember. From all accounts she was a most interesting and able woman. She and the General, from the time they were married in 1863 to the time of the General's death at age 37, were a devoted couple.

Warner Brothers made a motion picture in the 1930's about General Custer called, "They Died With Their Boots On." This was a better picture than the title would imply, although parts of it were historically inaccurate or totally fictitious. The late Errol Flynn, who played the part of General Custer, did not really look like the General, but Olivia de Havilland, who played the part of Libby Custer, really looked like her.

The facts about the residency of Mrs. Custer and the information about the deed were given me by Mrs. Cora Green of Philadelphia is on file in the recorder's office at the Court House.

It would be interesting to know who painted, "Custer's Last Stand". Perhaps someone can come up with the answer!

STEPHEN C. TAFFINGER,

Everitt Elected To 26th Term

J. ALLISON Everitt, Stroudsburg, was re-elected secretary yesterday at the Four-County Firemen's Convention in Stroud Township Municipal building. This is the beginning of Everitt's 26th year in that office.

The membership elected officers for the year and set Waverly as site of the 1963 convention. A total of 143 registered for the meeting.

Officers elected were, Earl Hensel, president; Thomas Seip, West Easton, first vice president; Jackson Sandt, Stroudsburg, second vice president; Nevin Fritzing, Cementon, third vice president; Charles Bonner, Nesquehoning, fourth vice president and Arthur B. Crescher, Matamoras, fifth vice president. Everitt has been secretary since the 1936 convention. Kline S. Wernert, Lansford, was elected treasurer. Wilbur R. Noll, Lehighton, took office as trustee for a five year term.

During the memorial services, Gloria Ace placed a red carnation in a white cross as each fireman who did during the past year was remembered. Rev. Francis Barrett gave the prayer and Rev. Albert Sauer gave the memorial address. Mrs. Darrel Gehris played organ selections. Rabbi Bernhard Presler gave the benediction.

Harold Albert, Stroud Township supervisor, gave the welcome address and Corvin D. Solt, chairman of the executive committee gave the response.

Hear Reports

In the afternoon business session, the members heard various reports and discussion on the possibility of legislation to be passed to arrange reimbursement for fighting fires on state highways which run through territory served by volunteer agencies.

It was stated that the firemen often use expensive methods to put out fires occurring on highways and that they do not receive money to compensate for it. The assembly agreed to arrange for the Firemen's Legislative Committee to take over the problem through the executive committee.

In other discussion, the Palmer Township delegation requested the group look into the possibility of uniting the members of rescue crews and ambulance crews to join the Four County Firemen's Association. This would include organizations in Monroe, Pike, Northampton, Lehigh and Carbon Counties.

A. J. Wilson, Exeter, special agent for the Board of Fire Underwriters, was main speaker at the afternoon session.

He gave a thumbnail sketch of the background involved in investigation of suspected arson and fraud fires. He cited cases where deaths had occurred in these fires and told of mobs which would set an establishment on fire to collect insurance for a fee.

"First Line"

He called the volunteer firemen, "the first line of defense." "They," he stated, "would be the ones who would find any evidence of arson and report it to the fire marshal."

In the year between May 1961 and May 1962, of the 3,594 fires investigated, 780 were "crooked." In the eastern states, a mob had set nine fires and were caught at the site of the ninth. A total of $700,000 insurance was involved. The radios covered by the organization was more than 100 miles.

He told of an organ salesman who arranged to have a building-warehouse burn down. The place was purchased for $1,000 but when the investigating team checked, they found a total of $21,000 insurance on the building. They arrested the man. Wilson said he was the "fatherly type" and had a good reference in the community. The family he lived with put up bail of $3,000 and the erstwhile organ salesman hasn't been seen since.

Lester Rice, Stroud Township Fire Chief, president of the 1962 convention, handed the gavel of president to Earl Hensel in coming president, who then adjourned the meeting.

Driver Cleared In Deaths Of Three S-burg Residents

EASTON — The Northampton County Court has approved a petition allowing the Commonwealth to withdraw an involuntary manslaughter charge against John Joseph Knisley of 183 S. Whitfield St., Nazareth.

Knisley has been charged with the deaths of three Stroudsburg residents stemming from an auto accident on the Nazareth-Talmy Road, Palmer Township, last June 17.

Dist. Atty. Andrew L. Herster, Jr., asked that the charge be withdrawn against Knisley for lack of evidence to sustain the charge. Killed in the accident were Marcellus J. Carman, 36, and his mother, Mary E. Carman, 60, both of 32 N. 5th St. Carman's father, George Carman, 60, died later. The accident happened near the crest of a rise in front of the alfalfa dehydrating plant of Green Acres Farm.

In his petition for a nol prosequere, Herster stated that no eye-witnesses were present at the time of the accident and all evidence, therefore, is circumstantial.

10 Deeds Filed At Court House

TEN deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeanette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Jennie M. Cortright, East Stroudsburg, to William E. and Joan M. Barron, Stroudsburg, two properties in East Stroudsburg; J. Rebecca and Walter O. Duggins, Stroudsburg, to Donald J. and Margaret E. Williamson, same address, three properties in Stroudsburg.

Joseph H. and Mildred E. Beers, Lower Mt. Bethel Township, to Houdaille Construction, Materials, Inc., Morristown, N. J., two properties in Stroudsburg; Pocono Lakeshore, Inc., to Clarence A. Aggar, North Branch, N. J., two properties in Monroe Lake Shores.

Pocono Lakeshore to Russell W. and Patricia P. Miller, Elizabeth, N. J., property in Monroe Lake Shores; Pocono Lakeshore to Walter A. and Florence G. Cleary, Elizabeth, N. J., property in Monroe Lake Shores.

Stillwater Lake Estates, Inc., Pocono Summit, to Morgan S. and Jennie Heckman, Claymont, Del., property in Tobyhanna Township; Stillwater Lake Estates to Edward F. and Mary C. Teti, Philadelphia, property in Tobyhanna Township.

Pocono Summit Lakes, Inc., to Orville D. and Nell O. Green, Parma, Ohio, nine properties in Coolbaugh Township; Pocono Summit Lakes to John Mundy, Pocono Summit, eight properties in Coolbaugh Township.

Miller was represented by Atty. Edwin Kravitz of Stroudsburg. He was directed to pay $39 in costs.

It was erroneously reported Wednesday that Miller was found guilty.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace Walter Auch of Palmer Township, former Township Police Chief Charles Wenner was the only Commonwealth witness.

Knisley was driving in the east-bound lane and the Carmans in the westbound lane.

Wenner testified of a gouge in the westbound lane presumably made by the defendant's car; of skid marks in that lane allegedly made by the Knisley car and that Knisley's eyesight was defective. Other testimony adduced at the hearing alleged the defendant hadn't slept for 30 hours before the accident.

A statement taken by Wenner from George Carman following the accident was allowed into evidence by Auch over the objection of Raymond De Raymond, defense counsel, with the district attorney agreeing that it was inadmissible.

Did Not Seek

According to Herster, Wenner did not seek this testimony and now that the witness is dead it cannot be ascertained. The testimony involved a statement attributed to the elder Carman to the effect that his son had swerved to the right to avoid a collision.

Herster claims that Auch erroneously allowed this testimony. The only other witness is Glenn George Wallace, a passenger in the Knisley car, presently in a penitentiary in Ohio. Wallace claims no knowledge of the accident.

"Neither the grand jury nor the petit jury should be allowed to guess as to how the accident occurred with its resultant unfortunate deaths," Herster said. President Judge William G. Barthold signed the petition.

Monroe's United Jewish Appeal Kickoff Wednesday

SHULAMITH Zechory Spector will be the guest speaker at the Monroe County United Jewish Appeal drive dinner Wednesday, June 20, at 8 p.m. in Daviduke's Hotel, Marshalls Creek.

Mrs. Spector, a Israeli engineer, industrial consultant and radio producer, will speak on behalf of the UJA and the American Christian Palestine Committee.

She recently completed a survey for the Israel Government and in the course she analyzed the development of small industry throughout the county. She is an authority on the problems and difficulties facing immigrants to Israel who must be absorbed into Israel's industry.

A Sabra, or native Israeli, Mrs. Spector was born in Jerusalem in 1930. Her parents were pioneer settlers in Pre-Israel Palestine. Like so many other members of her generation, boy and girl alike, she became a member of the Jewish self-defense force at the age of 13 and became a group leader at 15.

Commandos Leader

During the war of liberation she served as a lieutenant of commandos in the Negev Brigade. After the Negev campaign she served in Jerusalem as Woman Commander of the Jerusalem Area.

A graduate of Herzlia gymnasium, she came to the United States in 1951 to pursue engineering studies at Columbia University. She graduated in 1955 and an industrial engineer and returned to Israel to take up a career as an industrial consultant.

She has written for the Israel press and was co-editor of a historical picture-volume dealing with Haganah activities prior to State-

Shulamith Z. Spector

In 1962 the UJA seeks a $35,000,000 special fund to meet the pressing problems of the expected heavy immigration to Israel and other lands in 1962, along with a regular campaign goal of $60,000,000. The goal in Monroe County is $7,000.

JUNE—THE MONTH OF ROSES—and rose aphids, at least that is how the Daily Record photographer classified these monsters which he magnified 26 times. Their actual size is about that of a letter of type, but they do a disproportionate amount of damage. Upon consultation, Biologist Tom Knepp recommended a solution of Malathion mixed according to directions, with the added warning that the sprayer would do well not to breathe it too deeply. Equally lethal to rose aphids but slower and harder to come by are lady bug beetles. Meantime let's hope this science-fiction enlargement doesn't scare any bridesmaid out of trying to catch the bride's bouquet this weekend. Just think of them as little letter a's—with legs

Bride's Dilemma—Take Warning, If Too Bouncing

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Kay Ann Miller almost didn't arrive for her wedding.

The Tucson girl was all set to marry Charles de la Fuente of Nogales, Ariz., when suddenly she and her parents discovered the bride's flowing gown and long train wouldn't fit in the family's compact car.

The solution was provided by a florist. Miss Miller rode to the church in a one and half ton panel truck.

Pocono Art Center Praises Artists Of Music Festival

By Helen Harriton

The Tamiment Music Festival, which is offered to this community through the generosity of Ben Josephson, of Tamiment, is one of the finest expressions of the art of music to be heard anywhere. In its field, it is as important as the Tanglewood Concerts, and regularly draws audiences from New York and Philadelphia to Tamiment.

The Pocono Art Center is fortunate to benefit from the sale of tickets for these concerts. We feel it is a privilege to bring to your attention the delightful experience that these concerts afford. The Art Center has sent out a mailing, because this is the most effective way to get tickets into the hands of the people most likely to appreciate them.

This 11th year of the Festival, the program is varied, with the first concert on Thursday evening, June 21, presenting the husband-wife piano virtuosos, Eleanor and Vladimir Sokoloff, so well known to us all, in a Schubert and Brahms program, followed by the Curtis Quartet with Vladimir Sokoloff in a Franck Piano Quintet.

Russian Prize

You may have noticed that this is different from the program opening you received in the mail. Jascha Brodsky, first violinist of the Quartet, has had a serious operation. Though he is recovering satisfactorily, he will be unable to take part this year. You will accordingly receive an extra treat, for the Quartet is filling in with the gifted young violinist from Israel and Philadelphia, Schmuel Ashkenazi, who recently created such a sensation in Moscow, when he won second prize in a Tchaikovsky competition—in the land of Tchaikovsky himself!

The other members of the Quartet need no introduction to this community, for they are summer residents near Minisink Hills—Max Aranoff, viola; Orlando Cole, cello; and Mehli Mehta, violin—and, with Jascha Brodsky, make up the famous Curtis String Quartet which has toured extensively both in this country and abroad.

On Friday evening, the flute virtuoso, Julius Baker, plays as only he can in five presentations, accompanied in different compositions by the viola, cello, violin and piano—an exquisite program appealing to the most critical ear.

It is always a delight to attend a daytime concert at Tamiment, and enjoy music of the finest in such a romantic setting. On Sat-

Leisure Hour Learn Its Fun To Entertain

More than 40 members of the Leisure Hour Club attended the meeting held on Wednesday at the YMCA. Miss Betty Decker was the speaker on "It's Fun to Entertain".

Members with birthdays in June were honored.

After the program the women were joined by members of the MORA Club for refreshments of ice cream and cake.

The next meeting will be June 27 at 2 p.m. at the YMCA.

Parents, Teacher Attend Reese Graduation

Saylorsburg — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Altomero and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Reese Sr. attended graduation exercises at the Pennsylvania State University on Saturday when Clayton Reese Jr. received a degree.

Reese was also commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. He is a former pupil of Mrs. Altomero.

urday afternoon, June 23, there will be an appropriately romantic program—Ashkenazi and V. Sokoloff will present the Sonata in E-flat by R. Strauss, followed by a piano Quintet, Op. 81, of Dvorak, with the Quartet.

The final concert of the series on Sunday morning, June 24, at 11, is one I am looking forward to—in 't, I'm taking my grandchildren, to hear it. There is another viola, with Caroline Woron playing it, in a String Quintet by Mozart. Then Rose Bampton, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera, and well-known and loved in the Poconos, will present three songs for voice and strings, by Pizzetti. The program closes with a Brahms string Quintet—what an inspiration on a summer Sunday morning!

Two bus routes are again operating to bring in the children from the outlying rural districts. Emergency orders for Vacation Church School supplies have been sent to

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

I don't know how to evaluate this vaunted mother's intuition. I could feel Peter coming closer — and got as skittish as a kitten before an approaching thunder storm — all fluffed up shying away from every shadow, and finding it impossible to settle down to anything.

I even made an extra trip home to put away the extra milk and checking the, for once, well ordered downstairs. Leaving, I did the unprecedented and locked the back door, just to insure that the house would stay straightened up, I suppose.

And in so doing, locked in my only son who had arrived after several sleepless nights, tried to locate me, and then gone to bed for the first time in 14 months in his own bed. Where my intuition was right then I'll never know. Anyway, it must have been an odd sort of homecoming for him, but any kind of homecoming was eminently satisfactory for me, although I resent the accusation that I locked him in on purpose just to be sure he was here to stay — for the 30 days of his leave, anyway.

It doesn't take much intuition to realize that now begins what will probably begin what is the most exciting week of my life, not excepting the trip to Pisa. I don't know how many of you remember those elementary experiments we used to do in high school physics with magnets. Probably now they have them in third grade science, but they still fascinate me.

We'd sprinkle lead filings on a sheet of paper and then put a magnet underneath. With a little judicious jiggling the disorganized heap of filings would begin to line themselves, heel and toe, like a parade getting into formation and there they'd stay in the orderly and unvariable pattern of a magnetic field or force.

Nobody's scattering iron filings at the moment — and they'd better not in my house, right now — but somehow I can feel that same invisible field of force lining up the whole family, drawing them into the pattern that every family seems to take on before a wedding.

Now if somebody just doesn't jiggle the paper or the magnet doesn't run out of juice, we're in

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

It's handy to know talented people... that's why I'm so grateful for my friendship with Arthur Widmer, of our advertising office, and Audrey Wyckoff, Pete's wife. Two of my big, last minute worries early Wednesday were finding some make-believe fishes to dangle from fishing rods, and linking hot dogs together so they could be trailed, as props for our Wyckoff-Hadassah Fashion Show.

It seems that kosher hot dogs come linked, as did at hot dogs years ago... but no market around admitted to having any "before Friday." So, Audrey—whose son David was to carry and "lose" them—agreed to fasten some together with a combination of ingenuity, patience, butcher's twine, and Scotch tape. She did too! Now comes the pay-off. Edith Jacobson, of Hadassah, who helped immeasurably in putting the show together, walked into a market Thursday morning, after the show, and was confronted by a huge mound of linked frankfurters. "You told me you wouldn't have any until Friday," she wailed. "When did you get these?" The butcher shrugged. "Oh, those we had," he said, "but I wouldn't sel'em to anyone... they aren't fresh."

As for the fishes, Shorty Widmer produced a pretty pair, made from four drawings, glued together in pairs, their bodies rounded out with kleenex stuffing. They are so cute that they weren't demolished when the show ended. I have them in my office and intend to keep them as souvenirs of the '62 show... our biggest, most colorful, and most ambitious one thus far.

Looking back, I remember best the spectacular beaded and embroidered gowns from Israel, and the bulky woolen great coats and dramatic suits made by students of the Alice Seligsberg School. I remember too the tableau opening this half of the production when Diane Saxton and Sherri Litts walked together down the runway, wearing crisp little dresses by Joseph Love. They carried nosegays, with streamers matching the colors of the two nations, tiny flags of which were tucked into the flowers. Sherri's dress was a full-skirted cotton of American blue with sleeves and apron of starched white eyelet... just perfect with our own American flag and red, white, and blue streamers. Dark eyed Diana was in fluffy white dachon organza embroidered with the same lovely shade of blue one finds in the Israeli flag. And back of them came Erika Shantz, wearing the prized Israeli ceremonial jacket now "stolen" from the men by the women, who adapt it for wear over lounge and sportswear. This seemed to be an appropriate beginning for the Israeli show, for Israeli's traditions are very, very old and firmly rooted, while the white hope of tomorrow is the child upon whom rests the responsibility of making this a better world.

Going farther back into my memories of the show, I recall the laughter that heralded the little boys on every appearance, because they walked so fast and were so intensely anxious to be done with it. There were David, whom I have already mentioned; Craig Hunsicker, and Stewart Delk. And there were Cindy Levy, whose mother had given her a few pointers on how to walk and turn, and who promises to be a real professional like Rosemary within a few years... and Norma Jean Ducklow, who was as calm and self-assured as any older girl who has spent half of her life on a runway.

I remember Erika, Georgie Lichtenberg, and Carole Cartwright in denim... a wonderful group, yet each wearing a different label from our racks: Bobbie Brooks, Jantzen, and Peti; Missie Wyckoff, ladylike and pretty in cool, sheer, green-tan and white Suburban sets—skirt and blouse; Kate Mullins, striking in snow-white 3-piece knitwear coordinates by Aileen with Marvella jet jewelry and a big, bold black velvet and horsehair chapeau by Mr. John Jr. Sue Sebring, Rhoda Weltzman, and Robin Scheet izn swim suits: Sue's combining two glorious shades of blue ferry-type fabric by Jantzen; Robin in Jantzen's "Well Rounded," a trim, figure pampering suit of hot pink faille; Rhoda in Darlene's "Rose Garden," a Persian print type of thing, velvety, bright, flattering, luxurious; Lorree Smith in bell bottom trousers topped by Jantzen's horizontally striped "Topside" shirts; Betsy Gaunt wearing car cord pushers with Jantzen's Wembleton cardigan and Raquet shirt; and Jean Marean in shocking pink hopsacking slacks by Bobbie Brooks, with a coordinated multistriped blouse. And I remember the many persons who said, "Your show was beautiful, and the prices so sensible." It was quite an evening... and now that it's over, let's buy Dad a gift for HIS day tomorrow.

Outlets Are Numerous For At-Home Crafts

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

"For some time I've wanted to write you to ask whether opportunities to do crocheting or fancy work at home still exist," writes a New Jersey reader.

"When I was a child, I knew there used to be work that fell into this category because I have vivid memories of my mother crocheting booties and saque sets by the dozen.

"As a child, though, I never bothered to find out for whom she was crocheting or why. But I do recall that she worked on order and got paid for what she made.

Wants Information

"Now I've reached the point where I can walk any distance to leave home to work. But I can crocheting, embroidery, make quilts and braid rugs. Do you know where I can find an honest place that will either buy homemade articles or sell them on consignment?"

As a starter, consult your telephone book to see whether there's a Women's Exchange in your area. If there is, submit to them samples of what you have to sell. They, in turn, will have a special committee look over your wares and if they feel they can sell what you submit, they'll take your items on consignment.

What They Sell

Typical items they sell are quilts, knitted baby things, stuffed animals, pin cushions, aprons, sachets and children's clothes, to mention just a few.

To join a Women's Exchange there's a fee of $2 annually. Usually you're asked to put your price on your wares when you submit them to the Exchange. Then the Exchange takes 25 per cent of the selling price of each item to cover operating expenses. Obviously it's wise to take this 25 per cent into consideration when you price your items.

Other Outlets

Other outlets for homemade articles are gift and specialty shops in your area. Research the telephone book and find out how many of these shops are near you. Then call on the owners personally and show samples of what you'd like to sell through their shops.

By the law of averages, you'll probably find some owners who will display what you have to sell, sell what you keep on display and take orders for customers if the demand for what you make is larger than your display.

Naturally, the owner gets a certain percentage of the selling price.

In some areas there are needlework shops run by women who, along with selling yarns, tapestries, et cetera, knit or crocheted custom-made clothes and sweaters to order. Normally the woman who runs the shop does most of the knitting and crocheting herself. But I've known some of these women to get bogged down with too much knitting and crocheting all at one time. And when this is the case, they're usually on the lookout for helpers.

Needlework Shops Offer Variety of Opportunities

So keep on the lookout yourself for opportunities such as these.

Start A Shop

Finally, while we're on the subject of needlework shops, you might even consider starting a needlework shop in your home in which, in addition to taking orders for handwork, you could sell needlework supplies, conduct children's needlework classes and give other types of instruction when warranted.

If you would like to receive "Pointers on Developing a Home Service," send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper.

Parade Of Proud Paternity

Father Of Future President? History Reveals Varied Roles Of Past Sires

By VIRGINIA E. PALMER

Written For The Associated Press

WHEN Joseph P. Kennedy announced he would not live near Washington after the inauguration of his son as President, he said:

"If Jack ever feels he has anything to ask me — I've had lots of different experiences in life — he knows where he can find me and I'll tell him what I think. But I feel very strongly about older people keeping their noses out of the businesses of their children."

That was typical of the elder Kennedy, who believes in bringing up children to stand on their own feet.

Now Fighting Tough Battle

He is currently fighting the toughest fight of his 73 years: a paralyzing stroke he suffered last December.

Grant's Father Attended

Until Joseph Kennedy and his wife Rose witnessed their son's inauguration, only U. S. Grant's parents lived to see him so honored. A strange, cold individual, Grant's mother refused to attend any White House function. Her loquacious husband, however, was so delighted that his son had finally made something of himself he not only attended the inauguration but by falling and seriously injuring himself, drew considerable attention away from the President.

Jesse Grant was a strongly opinionated man who fought a constant battle with Mrs. Grant's father, a Southern colonel who was afforded the role of Honored Guest at the executive mansion.

Possibly the finest tribute to a father came from the lips of Theodore Roosevelt: "He was everything to me: father, companion, friend. He shared all my joys, and in sharing doubled them and soothed all the few sorrows I ever had."

The elder Theodore was a wealthy glass merchant, a sixth generation New Yorker, and a founder of the American Museum of Natural History. Cancer claimed him while his son was a student at Harvard.

Roosevelt knew the love and friendship of his father for 19 years, but President Garfield was only a year old when his father was killed in a raging fire that threatened his crops.

Many men were similarly robbed early in life.

George Washington was only 11 when his father Augustine, owner of the equivalent of six good-sized plantations, died. The father, who also maintained an interest in a foundry, was a widower with four children when he married Mary Ball, a 20-year-old wealthy orphaned girl. Together they produced six more children, the oldest of whom became our first President.

Typhoid fever caused the death of Herbert Hoover's father when the boy was 6. Mrs. Hoover took in sewing rather than touch her husband's $1,000 insurance money which she put aside for the children's education. Two years later, at age 34, she passed away. In his memoirs, former President Hoover says he remembers playing barefoot in his father's blacksmith shop where he once stepped on a chip of hot iron. To this day he carries the brand of IOWA on his foot.

Two Born Posthumously

Two Presidents were born after their fathers had died: Andrew Jackson, and Rutherford B. Hayes. On the other hand, President Millard Fillmore, born of impoverished parents in a log cabin, had the companionship of his Dad until the chief executive was 63 years old.

Nathaniel Fillmore, who had nine children in all, once refused to stay at the White House for any length of time. "No. I will not go; I don't like it there; it isn't a good place for Millard either. I wish he were home in Buffalo."

Three Presidents' fathers were governors of their respective states: William Henry Harrison and John Tyler's fathers in Virginia, Franklin Pierce's in New Hampshire.

The father of President Taft and grandfather of the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio was once a U. S. Secretary of War.

Three ministers gave us leaders: Richard Russell Cleveland, Joseph Ruggles Wilson and William Arthur. None lived to see his son reach the pinnacle of his career.

Nineteen Were Farmers

Nineteen farmers produced sons who held the nation's top office. Coolidge's father was a farmer and a notary public. He is remembered by some as the man who swore his son in office by dim light at 2 a.m. on Aug. 3, 1923. Coolidge, then vice president, was vacationing at his father's Plymouth Notch, Vt. home when word reached them of Harding's death.

Three fathers of Presidents were foreign born — and strangely enough they all migrated here from northern Ireland: Jackson, Buchanan, and Arthur.

One man was the father of one President and the son of another. He was John Scott Harrison, son of William Henry who served one month in office, and father of our 23rd President Benjamin, the man who served between Cleveland's two terms. Like his father, John Harrison studied medicine briefly, became a farm owner and eventually ended up in Congress.

In 1825 when John Quincy Adams was inaugurated as our sixth President, all of his predecessors (except Washington) were alive. The list included his 89-year-old father, the erudite patriot described by Alexander Hamilton as: "Always honest, sometimes able, but always mad."

Married More Than Once

The fathers of several Presidents married more than once. As a result, Fillmore, Lincoln, Harding and Coolidge had stepmothers. Lincoln, who always clashed with his restless, ne'er-do-well father, expressed more at-fection for his stepmother than for Thomas Lincoln. They went separate ways when Abe was about 20.

When the elder Lincoln died at 73, his prominent son was not among the mourners who watched him buried in an unmarked grave beside his tiny cabin.

Products of their father's second marriages were Washington, Pierce, Benjamin Harrison, Taft and F. D. Roosevelt.

No President was an only child, although many think Franklin Roosevelt was. Actually his father, "The Squire of Hyde Park," was a 52-year-old widower when he met popular Sara Delano, socialite daughter of a successful banker and Far East trader. She was 26, the same age as his married son. With muttonchop whiskers and a delightful sense of humor, Roosevelt was director of many companies. Franklin was 18 when death claimed his elderly father.

Ohio newspaperman Warren G. Harding, before President Kennedy the first man to jump from the Senate directly to the White House, was the son of a doctor. Dr. George T. Harding was a retired surgeon when his son died of apoplexy in a San Francisco hotel in 1923, on a return trip from Alaska. The elder Harding, the only father to survive his President son, lived to be 84.

Truman's Horse Trader

Harry Truman once described his Confederate Dad as "the best horse trader in the country." A small man with a keen humorous streak, he died at 54 in 1915.

Eisenhower was 51 and an Army career man when he lost his father.

President Kennedy may come from a large family of nine brothers and sisters — an impressive number these days — but it's no record. Madison and Benjamin Harrison were each one of 12 children. Buchanan one of 11, and Washington, Jefferson, Polk and Taft each came from families of 10 children.

STRIKE UP THE BAND for a supper you can fix this morning and serve with a flourish after the parade. Cook the macaroni now and make the sauce and it will be ready for popping in the oven when you get home.

Fireman's Parade More Fun If You Have Supper Ready To Invite A Crowd

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

Who doesn't love a parade? If you saw the Fireman's Parade four years ago you know you had better find a spot early, and if you have a camp stool or folding chair, better take it with you! Three and one-half hours is a long time to stand and it's so exciting you won't want to miss a minute of it.

It's a sure thing you won't feel like going home to cook a big supper when the last band has marched away. Fix something this morning and then you can go to the parade with a free mind. If you beg the macaroni now for this Ham and Asparagus Super, cook the Asparagus, and make the sauce, all you have to do after the parade is pop it in the oven. Add corn muffins from the freezer and your favorite salad; the family will think you slaved all day!

Ham and Asparagus Supper

(Serves 6)
8 slices cooked ham
7 ounces package elbow macaroni
10½ ounce can cream of asparagus soup
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 cups (½ pound) shredded cheddar cheese
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
24 spears cooked asparagus
Cook macaroni according to directions on package. Combine soup, milk, egg, 1½ cups of the cheese, and Worcestershire sauce in a saucepan. Heat until cheese is melted. Add soup mixture to macaroni in a 2-quart casserole dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350) 15 minutes. Roll three asparagus spears in each ham slice. Arrange spoke fashion on top of macaroni. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Return to oven 15 minutes.

If You Invite A Crowd

Maybe the children would enjoy a picnic supper in the yard instead. How about a pot of barbecue that will stretch to feed the friends you meet on Main St. and invite to the house afterwards? Make it now and reheat tonight or let it cook by itself while you're keeping Johnny from joining the band. I don't know whom should receive credit for this recipe. Mary Jane Small gave it to me but Louise Fredenberg, Sis Le Van, and Mary Rhodes have served it, too. If that many girls like it, you know it must be good!

This can be doubled or tripled for a crowd and it's a good all-year round recipe. For a party keep it hot in an electrical appliance and let guests serve themselves. It freezes perfectly, too, so that it can be kept on hand for midnight snacks or unexpected guests.

The Gang's Wimpys

Cut up two medium onions, two cloves garlic, and cook in two tablespoons olive oil over low heat; don't brown. Add two cans tomato paste and cook 20 minutes over low heat.

Brown one and one half pounds hamburger and add to the sauce with one large can Italian tomatoes, two green peppers, chopped, one half cup chili sauce, one teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne pepper, and a pinch of cloves. Cook mixture for an hour without a lid.

To Be A Welcome Weekend Guest, Mind Your Manners

By Vivian Brown
How does the mother of your best friend feel after you've spent a weekend at their home?

Your own mother may be accustomed to your heavy walking on a staircase, banging doors or slurping with soda straws. But these may be the very things that drive other mothers to distraction.

Every home has its own tolerance level. If you want to be asked to make another visit, consider these mom irritants:

1. Giggling, snickering and whispering. Says one mom: "It's so rude, and young people think it's funny."

2. Being indefinite, such as "I get up whenever I wake up," or "I'll have either the strawberry or vanilla," or "I don't know when my family will call for me."

Mothers like to know when, where, how many, and how much.

3. Hanging laundered items conspicuously indoors or outdoors, especially on weekends. The average girl should have enough clean undergarments to last one weekend, they feel. If she is staying for a longer period, she should discuss washing possibilities.

4. Being inconsiderate, such as putting wet glasses on furniture surfaces, or throwing wet bathing suits over chairs, combing hair over wash basins or spilling powder over bureaus.

5. Acting like a paying guest. This makes everyone feel the girl thinks she isn't welcome, says one mother, staying in her room or going away for the day, showing up just for meals.

6. Monopolizing the bathroom in a small house with limited bathroom facilities. Such as taking three or four showers a day although there is a limited warm water supply, using the bathroom to make up her face, set her hair and comb it out.

7. Scrambling legs in the pres-

The Mayor's Corner

By Joseph H. Small
Mayor of Stroudsburg

IT HAS been just about a month ago that I last wrote to you about what was happening here in Stroudsburg.

With the amount of people that are coming into the County for the vacation season and with the children getting out of school for the summer, it seems that there are a lot more problems within our Borough. Sometimes the people from the city just don't realize the confusion that so many people make on a small town.

Of course, we love to have them come and shop in our stores and become one of us for the summer months. I had a visitor tell me the other day that there just isn't anyplace like Stroudsburg in the summer time. He went on to say that he has traveled all over the country and he felt that we had the cleanest, friendliest, best stores, best police department of any town that he has ever been in.

Of course, this is the type of thing that you like to hear and I also agree with him. Some of us that don't get away from the Pocono Mountains just don't know how lucky we are.

In our business we have occasion to send people to the large city hospitals for special treatment and without exception they come back and have nothing but praise for our local hospital. We just don't know how the other half of the world is living.

As your Mayor I am always working to make Stroudsburg a better place to work and live.

One of the things that is going on now is the removal of trees on West Main Street. This is one of the things that I don't like to see but after very careful study there just isn't anything that we can do but to take down these large trees so that the street can be widened to meet with State approval.

As we wrote last month, there is going to be almost $100,000 spent on this street with less than $10,000 coming directly from the taxpayers of Stroudsburg.

This is going to be a big improvement to our town and just as soon as this work is done trees will be replanted by our Shade Tree Commission. There is no charge for this planting and anyone who lost trees should drop myself or Mr. Harold Snyder a note requesting that trees be planted.

On Wednesday of this week several of the councilmen, Mr. Snyder, and myself met with the engineers from Pa. Power and Light and the heads of the Pa. Dept. of Highways in Allentown to go over the lighting problem on the new Thru-way.

We have submitted plans and are now trying to get them approved in Harrisburg. If they approve them then they will be sent to Washington to have the federal government put their O.K. on them and then I guess we can start.

I understand that all of this will take time but it is hoped that maybe we can have lights by Christmas. The project is started and that is the most important step.

I would like to take this opportunity to say welcome to the Four County Firemen Assn. May your stay in Monroe County be a pleasant one and be sure to come to see us again.

Mayor Joe

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Maybe Walt and Jerry don't realize the paradox in this scene. They're simply leaning on the fence while their youngsters enjoy the new sliding board in Walt's backyard.

But fences once implied enmity... fear... selfishness. They are first cousins to the walls the ancients built around their cities.

Centuries of Christian influence have implanted a different spirit in men's hearts. A fence today can add interest and beauty to neighbors' gardens, while keeping Walt's and Jerry's kids from running across the flower beds.

There are countless evidences of Christian influence in our community today. The Church has elevated human ideals. Faithful worship and spiritual growth bring us closer to those ideals.

Dear Abby

All The Disadvantages!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school junior and am in love with a 19-year-old boy. He says he loves me and wants to marry me as soon as I finish school. The only things stopping us are age, religion and money. I am Catholic and he is Jewish. His parents are so mad at him they don't even want to meet me, and mine are also against our marriage. He still doesn't know what line of work he is going to follow, but can get almost any kind of selling job because he has a nice appearance and a gift of gab. Do you think we have a chance of making a go of marriage?

SUE (not my real name)

DEAR SUE: If you and your boy friend are two in a million, you can make it. But I advise you to WAIT! Neither one of you is equipped for marriage. And money, and the blessings of your parents are very important.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three years and I feel like nothing but an unpaid housekeeper. When we go grocery shopping, I sit in the car and my husband goes in with the grocery list. I am not allowed to have a milkman or a bread man. I haven't been to a beauty parlor since we've been married. Abby, what's a woman supposed to do when she looks like a sheep dog and is kept practically bare footed?

Littler Drops Off

Arnie, Rosburg Lead Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Favorite Arnie Palmer, with a 3-under-par 68, and unorthodox Bob Rosburg, with 69, zoomed ahead of faltering Gene Littler Friday and forged into the halfway lead in the 62nd National Open Golf Championship with 139.

Littler, the defending champion and first round pace-setter with 69, lost his putting touch and dropped off the pace with a 74 for a 143.

Hitting the ball superbly from tee to green, the placid, effortlessly-swinging Littler from San Diego, Calif., ran into repeated frustrations on Oakmont's massive, hump-backed greens. He three-putted the first hole, failed on birdie putts of 6 to 8 feet and hit a climax of futility when he dubbed an easy 2-footer for a bogey 6 on the 538-yard 12th. Littler's face seemed to pale and his shoulders sag when the putt lipped the cup and veered away. He had knocked in 10 straight pars — some of which could have been birdies — when this disappointment hit. He didn't have a birdie on the round.

Two-Stroke Edge
Facing Saturday's exhausting

double round climax over the 6,894-yard, par 71 Oakmont Country Club course, Palmer and Rosburg had a two-stroke advantage over Billy Maxwell, who scrambled to a 70 for 141. A trio is another shot back at 142. They are Jack Nicklaus, the hefty, 200-pound pro rookie from Columbus, Ohio, who had a 70; South Africa's Gary Player, with his second straight 71, and young Bobby Nichols, 72.

Player, like Littler, couldn't sink a putt while the 26-year-old Nichols, a real tournament surprise, blew himself to bogeys on three of the last four holes when it appeared he might tie for the lead. He three-putted the 18th from 15 feet after his birdie putt rolled over the right corner of the cup.

For the second straight day a record crowd — 19,971 — poured over the famous old course in the mountains of Western Pennsylvania which has been a graveyard of championship hopes for more than half a century.

The cutoff point, reducing the field from 150 to the low 50 and ties, was 150. Sam Snead barely squeezed in at 150 after a 74. Mike Souchak had to get two birdies on the tough last nine for 73 and 148. Don January, 1961 PA runnerup, missed it by one stroke.

Jerry Barber, the reigning PGA champion, failed with 154. Former Masters and PGA champion Jack Burke also had 154. Former two-time Open champion Cary Middlecoff also failed, taking an 8 at No. 17 and finishing at 153.

Tribe Calls Ruben Gomez

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ruben Gomez, 34, a right-handed pitcher who has been in organized baseball since 1949, was purchased Friday by the Cleveland Indians from Jacksonville, their International League farm club.

To make room for Gomez the Indians optioned pitcher Wynn Hawkins to Jacksonville.

Gomez has started 11 games for Jacksonville this season and has won eight games against no losses. His earned-run average for 83 innings is 2.28. In 1960 and 1961 he had 7-6 and 7-5 records, respectively, for Buffalo of the International League which sold him to Jacksonville earlier this year.

Gomez pitched for the New York and San Francisco Giants and Philadelphia Phillies from 1953 to 1960 and had his best season in 1954 when he won 17 and lost nine in leading the Giants to a National League pennant. He beat the Indians 6-2 with a four-hitter in the third game of the 1954 World Series.

Willie Kirkland, Cleveland Indians' slugging right fielder, is one of baseball's more consistent performers. In four seasons he batted .258, .272, .262 and .259.

The largest field ever to start in the Kentucky Derby was in 1928 when 22 thoroughbreds went to the post.

Cleveland Blanks Yanks On Grant's Three-Hitter

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Jim (Mudcat) Grant fired a five-hit shutout over New York Friday night and rookie Al Luplow's two-run homer sparked the Indians' 3-0 triumph.

Luplow's two-run homer in the sixth inning after Jerry Kindall had opened the inning with a double broke up a brilliant duel between Grant (4-1) and the Yankees' Ralph Terry (7-6).

Terry had blanked the Indians for 16 innings before Luplow's sixth homer of the season and the Yankee pitching staff had shut out Cleveland for 23 innings.

But Grant, who now holds two triumphs over the world champions this season, was the complete master. He raved up a pair of singles to Clete Boyer and Yogi Berra and one to Terry. Grant, on leave from the Army walked three and struck out five.

Terry gave up only four hits in the six innings he worked. Bob Turley, who pitched the final two innings, was tagged for the final run in the eighth inning.

Kindall, who had three hits, rapped his second double to left field with one out. Then rookie Ty

Cline, who celebrated his 23rd birthday, smacked a two-out single to right to deliver the third run.

Abbatiello, the 1960 driving champion, has won eight dashes in quest of his second title at the Monticello Raceway after 10 nights of racing.

Terry gave up only four hits in the six innings he worked. Bob Turley, who pitched the final two innings, was tagged for the final run in the eighth inning.

Kindall, who had three hits, rapped his second double to left field with one out. Then rookie Ty

Koch, a fast-rising newcomer to the sport, has the most impressive record of any of the drivers. Driving his own horses for Dapple-Gray Farms, Huntington, N. Y., Koch succeeded in winning four of 11 races with three seconds and two thirds.

Defending driving champion Harold Dancer, Jr., is in a five-way deadlock for the next spots with three wins, Canadian Keith Waples, Richard Cusling, Ned Galante and Frank Popfinger are others with three wins.

Starter Bob Anderson was pitching a two-hitter before the Mets scored a run and loaded the bases with one out in the seventh. Gerard came on to fan pinch hitter Marv Throneberry and then got Jim Hickman on a roller to end the threat.

The Cubs jumped ahead in the second on Lou Brock's single, a double by Andre Rodgers and Anderson's long triple. Billy Williams' two-run single in the fifth and Ernie Banks' solo homer in the sixth completed Chicago's scoring against Met starter Roger Craig who lost his ninth.

Singles by Frank Thomas, Felix Mantilla and Gil Hodges produced New York's run.

Davies Gains Final Round

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Richard Davies, a handsome real estate man from Pasadena, Calif., defeated two sturdy Englishmen Friday and marched confidently through the rain to the final of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The 31-year-old bachelor, whose putter sparked with magic, will meet Welshman John Powell, a former professional, in Saturday's 36-hole final over the storied old Hoylake links. The last American winner was Deane Beman of Martinsville, Va., in 1959.

The arrival of both men at the final was something of a surprise. Players with great international reputations, like Mike Bonallack, the defending champion, and three-time winner Joe Carr found the going too tough in earlier rounds while the American and Welshman slogged on through the field.

Davies, a bronzed muscular giant, hit his usual rocketing drives in winning his quarter-final match from England's David Palmer 2 and 1 and his semifinal match with England's Rodney Foster 3 and 2. Surprisingly, though, it was a series of long putts at critical moments which enabled him to get the jump on his opponents, both regarded as rising young stars of British golf.

Powell gained his berth by upsetting Brian Chapman, a British Walker Cup star, 1-up in the semifinal after eliminating Scotland's Harry Kinlock 4 and 2 in the quarter-finals. Chapman's defeat shocked the gallery of 4,000 for he had been the giant-killer of the tournament, eliminating Carr in an earlier round.

The brilliance of Davies' golf was marred by a tendency to hit erratic long iron shots. His chipping and putting, plus his long drives, kept him out of trouble.

Christine Truman, carrying the main hopes of the 5,000 British fans in Wimbledon's No. 1 court, bowed to Mrs. Karen Hantz Suman of Chula Vista, Calif., 6-4, 7-5.

Finally, the U.S. team captain, Mrs. Margaret duPont of Joseph, Ore., and Margaret Varner of Wilmington, Del.—the two oldest members of the American team—won the doubles to complete the 5-0 sweep. They beat a couple of British kids, Deirdre Catt and Elizabeth Starkie, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

Registration will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. No cancellation due to inclement weather.

Slatington, in second place in the standings, gained ground on league leading Izaak Walton at a recent shoot held at Blue Ridge field range.

Pocono Archers continuously losing ground in the standings are now tied for third place with Bowmanstown.

West Penn and Blue Ridge fifth and sixth respectively round out the conference.

There will be a Conference meeting Sunday at the Slatington Club House at 9:30 a.m.

Representing Pocono Paul Daily, last year's club president and the only XAA will represent Pocono in his division.

On the firing line in the XA division will be Harold Hill, Walt Slack, Dick Phillips, Jim Banks and Richard Mann.

Representing the local club in the XB division will be William H. Lee, Gene Hippler, William Dilline, George Miller, Don Heller and Doug Henry.

Paul Ackerman, Ken Stine and Chet Dymond will participate in the Bowman class. Harry Shepps will be on hand for

Baltimore Routs Nats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pitcher Milt Pappas' fourth home run of the season was among 14 Baltimore hits Friday night as the Orioles routed the Washington Senators 8-3, handing the Senators only their second defeat in their last eight games.

Jackie Brandt hit his ninth homer for the Orioles, who tagged Don Rudolph with 10 hits and five runs in five innings and scored three more off Ray Rippelmeyer in the seventh.

The Senators matched the Orioles only in home runs, with Joe Hicks hitting No. 4 and Chuck Hinton No. 5 to make it 13 off Pappas this year.

But Pappas breezed by his seventh triumph, giving up eight hits and walking only one.

LONDON (AP) — The tennis girls of the United States built up a 3-0 lead over Britain in the annual Wightman Cup matches Friday and stood poised to retain the trophy.

They need to win only one of Saturday's four matches to take the Cup home.

Daniene Hard of Montebello, Calif., overcame an attack of stomach cramps to beat Ann Haydon 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 in the opening match of the day. The blonde American was hobbling painfully as the match ended.

Christine Truman, carrying the main hopes of the 5,000 British fans in Wimbledon's No. 1 court, bowed to Mrs. Karen Hantz Suman of Chula Vista, Calif., 6-4, 7-5.

Saylorsburg Leads In Pocono League

WEST End will take on Stroudsburg tomorrow at Gordon Giffels Field in Pocono Mountain League play.

With both teams on winning streaks, and with the Stroudsburg A's in second place behind Saylorsburg, the outcome of the game will probably rearrange the standings.

West End is three games out, in third place, but have won their last four games. Brian Hill will be the probable pitcher for West End, either Bill Sommers, Doug Price, or lefties LeRoy Smith or Earle Everett could handle the chucking chores for the A's.

Saylorsburg will be after their ninth straight at home against Barrett. Dick Serfass will go for the Lakers, and Motts will probably handle the ball for Barrett.

Bushkill at Bowmanstown will see Clint Alden against Bob Bowman. In the other game, rivals Reiders and Tannersville will claw. Reiders will send George Hartshorn against Harold Strunk. All games start at 2 p.m.

Pocono's Memorial Unit 903, American Legion auxiliary, preceded their meeting Monday evening with a Garden Supper party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton, Pocono Road, at 6:30 and husbands were invited. At the meeting reports given by Mrs. John Regan, on hospital equipment, were the purchase of five new mattress covers. Four beds are now available for the use of anyone in the community needing them. The next meeting of the four-county Council was announced to be held at Roseto, June 30. Mrs. Patrick Horgan and Mrs. Harry Taylor were named to audit the books. Mrs. Sutton appointed the following chairmen to serve for the next fiscal year: Americanism and Civil Defense, Miss Ellen Regan Community Service and Hospital.

Lawrence Hits Water Pollution

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "If our economy is to go forward...if our people are to survive and remain healthy, vast progress in the prevention of water pollution must be made," Gov. Lawrence said Thursday.
 Lawrence told delegates to the National Symposium on the Control of Coal Mine Drainage an expanding population and economy require an increasing supply of clean water.
 But the supply of water is inelastic, Lawrence warned, "therefore, we must find new ways to conserve it, to protect it against pollution, excessive runoff and other waste."
 The governor said a program he has proposed to keep open spaces fit for recreation — labeled Project 70 — is of crucial importance at this time.
 "We cannot allow the streams around which we will center a great portion of our open space projects to become impure," he said. "Neither should we minimize the complexity of the problem our anti-pollution programs present us."
 The governor also spoke at the annual Flag Day ceremony of the Sons of the American Revolution in Pittsburgh.

Western Union Plans Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Western Union Co. said today it plans to compete with American Telephone & Telegraph's Telpak Service, despite its opposition to Telpak before the Federal Communications Commission.
 A spokesman said the service is expected to begin Saturday for "protective" reasons. He said it will have no bearing on the FCC hearing.
 Telpak is a service permitting large customers to rent "highways" of communications lines instead of paying for a large number of individual private lines.

Scranton To Enter Hospital

HARRISBURG (AP) — U. S. Rep. William W. Scranton, Republican nominee for governor, plans to enter Geisinger Medical Center at Danville for his annual check-up, state Republican headquarters said.
 Scranton said his stay at the hospital, of which he is a trustee, would be brief, adding: "I feel fine. I'm in fighting spirit. I'm going in for my annual medical checkup."

Bankruptcy Question

By William A. Doyle
Q. A company in which I own stock was forced into bankruptcy proceedings some time ago by its creditors to whom the company owed a great deal of money. Now, all the assets (factories, equipment, etc.) of this company have been sold to another company for cash. However, the amount of money involved isn't even sufficient to pay off the company's debts.

Where does this leave me and all the other stockholders of the bankrupt company? Can I take a tax loss on my investment in this stock?

A. It's impossible to come up with the basis of the information you provide, you and all other stockholders of the bankrupt company will probably end up out in the cold—with your stock being worthless.

You and the other stockholders are the owners of the company. The company is in debt. The money received from the sale of its assets will naturally have to be used to satisfy the company's creditors.

If there's no cash left, your stock has no value.

Assuming that this happened this year, you can take a tax loss on the Federal income tax return you file for this year. Under the tax laws, when a security held as "a capital asset" becomes worthless, the resulting loss is treated as a capital loss as of the last day of the taxable year in which it became worthless.

Let's say you paid $1,000 for this stock. When you file your income tax return for 1962, you report a cost basis of $1,000 on the date of purchase and a value of zero as of Dec. 31, 1962. That gives you a $1,000 capital loss.

If it happened in a previous year, you should file an amended return for a refund or a credit, within seven years.

Q. I invested in shares of a well-known mutual fund more than a year and a half ago. In all this time I have never received any dividends or any notices that the dividends due to me have been reinvested in additional shares, even though I know that the fund pays dividends every three months.

I have written to the mutual fund's home office about this but my letters have not been answered. What do you suggest I do to get results?

A. I suggest that you go to the broker through whom you bought the shares of the mutual fund. Ask the broker to contact the people at the mutual fund and find out what's going on.

If the fund shares are registered in your name and the fund has your correct address, you should receive either a check or a notice of reinvestment every time the fund pays a dividend—depending upon the instructions you gave when you made your investment.

However, if you left your shares with your broker (in a "street name") the dividend check or notice of reinvestment naturally goes to your broker. In that case the broker should send you a periodic statement

Producer Playing 3 Roles

FERDINAND Hooker, one of the three producers of the new Cherry Lane Playhouse, which is located just north of Stroudsburg off Routes 611 or 191, is playing three very different roles in the first two productions now playing in repertory at the theatre-barn.

Hooker plays two colorful New Hampshire characters in (usually once a month) showing the status of your account.

In any case, the broker should help you get this thing straightened out. He got a nice commission when you made your original investment. And, if you are reinvesting your dividends, he's probably getting a commission with each reinvestment.

The failure of the fund to answer your letter stumps me. Most funds make a practice of answering shareholders mail in a hurry. Let's hope this doesn't indicate that there's another big record-keeping foul-up in the mutual fund business.

Hooker has worked in the theatre for many years in spite of his youth, and his ability in every phase of the theatre is very impressive. A graduate of the College of Mines and Metallurgy at Texas University, he interrupted his theatrical career for two years to work for Goldman and Sachs and Co. on Wall St., and returned to the scene to give rated performances in New York.

Newspapers Direct
Your Message
Right Where It Counts

An advertiser wants to make his point with people who are potential buyers. Newspapers deliver more "ready to buy" prospects than any other medium. Readers are attracted to ads that interest them. This means that readership ratings on ads represent live prospects for the advertiser. These are people who are easy to sell because they already have a product interest. People look for—and want—advertising in the daily newspaper.
